

A photograph of three toucans perched on a tree branch. The central toucan is in sharp focus, showing its large, multi-colored beak (red, yellow, and black) and its blue eye. It has a yellow and black speckled face and a red throat. To its left, another toucan is partially visible, also with its beak open. To the right, a third toucan is seen in profile, looking towards the right. The background is filled with lush green leaves and branches.
