OLD SMOCK
WINDMILL, KENT

"I took my girlfriend to this incredible romantic getaway in Kent for her birthday. We actually found it on Airbnb though it's definitely the higher end of the price scale. Totally worth it though – it's four storeys and there's a balcony, massive beams and a huge bath... Literally the most original building I've slept in, the hosts were really friendly and we both had such a peaceful, special time. Could imagine honeymooning here!"

TRAVEL NEWS

MISS TRAVEL

Would you travel with a complete stranger? Imagine a first date in Bali, or meeting someone new during a weekend getaway in Paris. MissTravel.com (which has 45,000 LGBT users) have just launched an app that means instead of relying on GPS locators to match you up with people when you're on holiday, now you can meet for coffee and if the chemistry is on, fly away together for a first date in a far-flung destination. Now that's what we call adventurous and romantic.

HOT HOTEL

INKATERRA

If you're looking for somewhere beautiful and exotic to head on honeymoon, the word is: Inkaterra. This South American eco tourism company puts sustainability high up on its priority list. Choose from two lodges in the Amazon (think: trekking through jungle, canopy walks, canoeing down the river), one in the cloud forests of Machu Picchu, one in Cusco and another recently-opened property in the Urubamba Valley, where there's an emphasis on traditional farming.

SAUNA, SO (NOT) FAR MANCHESTER
SPA

Who needs to go abroad for their honeymoon? The newly-opened spa at Manchester's Midland Hotel is about as luxurious as they get. Its primary focus is helping guests work on the art of relaxation, so you can expect a range of treatments, very comfortable rooms and excellent service. Here's the best bit: the eight treatment rooms include two private "duo suites" for swooning lovers to enjoy some privacy.
