

QUOTE

"Eco-conscious Inkaterra Hotels (Inkaterra.com) is in early development of a lodge 750 miles north of Lima at Cabo Blanco, a fishing village and popular breeding ground for humpback whales"

NEW YORK POST - by Gail Harrington

TRAVEL+ LEISURE

Peru

This year, Peru saw tourism expand beyond the traditional hotspots of Cusco and Machu Picchu. Lima became the “it” place for culinary pilgrimages, the northern coast became a place for beach lovers and adventure seekers, and a growing number of travel outfitters kicked off itineraries in the Amazon and beyond. But a series of developments near Machu Picchu has also put a new twist on an old favorite. Mountain Lodges of Peru opened up a series of beautiful lodges along the Lares Trail (for an adrenaline-light but culture-heavy experience), and the new 12-room Inkaterra Urubamba now lets you experience the Sacred Valley without sacrificing on style or comfort. Even if it was already crossed off your bucket list, chances are Peru is back on it once again.

Link to Story: <http://www.travelandleisure.com/slideshows/destination-of-the-year-2015-reader-poll/21>