

Inkaterra

The Canopy Tree House

The Canopy Tree House at Inkaterra Reserva Amazonica, Peru

Unlike many new “tree house” hotel rooms, Inkaterra’s Canopy Tree House is properly built on a suspended platform amid the high branches. It's reached via a long suspension bridge that hangs 98 feet above the rain forest floor. Guests who don’t book the tree house can still follow the Canopy Walkway, a system of eight suspension bridges above the jungle, to observe animal species that are not usually visible from the ground.