

25 Actual Treehouses That People Can Stay At Around The World

Some of them are built in incredibly remote places that are perfect for romantic getaways or for unplugging from the real world.

The thing that most of us desired when we were kids was a real treehouse. Not one of those kids houses that you can buy at home store and then place in your garden, but rather a serious treehouse - that involves planks of woods and nails - that you build on your own, with your friends or even your dad.

Unfortunately, most of us never had the luxury of owning a treehouse, for various reasons. Some of us didn't have a garden (or didn't have a garden that had large, tall trees), some of us had parents who deemed treehouses unsafe and some of us just couldn't convince anyone to help us build one.

Now that we're older, for most of us, there is still no prospect of having a treehouse. Some of us don't own our very own house, still, others can't be bothered. But fear not – you can still make your

INKATERRA RESERVA AMAZONICA CANOPY TREE HOUSE IN PUERTO MALDONADO, PERU

Those who seek total seclusion should consider staying at the Inkaterra Reserva Amazonica Canopy Tree House which is located in the Peruvian South Eastern Amazon in Puerto Maldonado, Peru. The stunning and one-of-a-kind treehouse connects to the Inkaterra Canopy Walkway which is one of South America's largest canopy bridges and which is elevated to about 22 meters above the ground.

Guests can observe the wild animals beneath them which would not normally be visible from down below. Indeed, according to the resort's website, only recently it was only scientists that could be seen exploring the area and the walkway.

FINCA BELLAVISTA IN GOLFITO, COSTA RICA

Here's an idea – why not ditch your office job and your house or apartment that requires quite a lot of maintenance and move to a treehouse community in Costa Rica? Located in Golfito in Costa Rica, Finca Bellavista is a treehouse community where people choose to live completely immersed in nature.

That being said, acquiring a treehouse in this unique community is far more challenging than renting one. Currently, there are 14 treehouses for rent and all are different and totally unique. Most come with balconies and solar electricity however and all boast amazing views.

TRANQUIL RESORT IN KERALA, INDIA

Tranquil Resort is built on a coffee and spices (think pepper and areca nut) plantation deep in the stunning rainforest of Wayanad, located in northern Kerala in India. The resort consists of seven rooms and two unique treehouses for those with a thirst for adventure.

Both treehouses – Tranquilitree Tree House and Serenetree Villa – are equipped with TV, a mini-fridge, a verandah and hot water. In addition, both treehouses are suitable for families – children who are three years or older can stay at the Serenetree Villa and children who are eight years old or older can stay at the Tranquilitree Tree House.

KADIR'S TREE HOUSES IN OLYMPOS, TURKEY

“Kadir's Tree houses, an original and humorous place between a forest and nomad tents. This facility in Antalya's Olimpos district is an ideal place for adventurous traveller”, it says on Kadir's Tree Houses website.

Those after a luxurious treehouse experience should stay away from Kadir's Tree Houses where five bedrooms are shared by strangers for you only pay for a bed. Toilets and showers are likewise shared by everyone but you do get a scrumptious buffet breakfast and dinner which is included in the price of the bed.

LIVINGROOM TREEHOUSES IN MACHYNLLETH, WALES

Livingroom Treehouses are located deep in the Welsh Mountains in Wales but are not too isolated for they are also close to the market town of Machynlleth as well as to the coast. The resort offers six treehouses nestled among Oak, Larch, and Scots Pine trees.

All six treehouses are extremely cozy. They are well insulated and come with a wood burning stove (which also heats the shower), a compost toilet and a kitchen. Of course, every treehouse boasts magnificent views. There is no electricity but plenty of lanterns and candles are provided.

FREE SPIRIT SPHERES IN VANCOUVER ISLAND, BRITISH COLUMBIA

As far as treehouses go, this one is slightly unusual. It is just one of the three unique treehouses offered by Free Spirit Spheres located in Vancouver Island in British Columbia. Their website boasts that they are “the most remarkable accommodation in the world” and indeed, they may just be right!

The spherical treehouses are located in a coastal rainforest and are perfect for those who love “glamping”. All sphere treehouses are handcrafted and boast five windows, a small kitchen area, and a speaker system. An elevated walkway connects the sphere treehouses to the rest of the world.

HOTEL COSTA VERDE IN QUEPOS, COSTA RICA

Hotel Costa Verde can be found in Manuel Antonio in Costa Rica and boasts a number of hotel rooms and apartments as well as houses and bungalows. But the real star of the hotel is undoubtedly “The 727 Fuselage Home” which is basically a refurbished 1965 Boeing 727. It is probably one of the most unique treehouses in the world.

The airplane treehouse boasts two bedrooms, two bathrooms, a kitchenette, a dining area, a terrace with an ocean view, a spiral staircase, a private entry, a TV, air conditioner and of course, the most magnificent views you can possibly imagine!

WINVIAN FARM IN CONNECTICUT, U.S

Winvian Farm in Morris, Connecticut is not your typical farm – it offers a number of luxurious cottages and suites, and even a restored helicopter where you can relax and have a drink. For those who love all things whimsical, the farm also offers a stay in a two-story treehouse.

The treehouse is built high above the ground – 10 meters or so to be exact – and comes equipped with all the luxuries you could possibly want, such as a king-size bed, two fireplaces, a hot shower, a Jacuzzi and a bar.
