Craft beer is the new fine wine, with everyone thinking about hops terroir and eager to try the local IPA wherever they travel. Now savvy hotels are getting in on the act, brewing their own custom small-batch beers on site. Here are eight places to raise a glass.

Inkaterra Hacienda Urubamba, Peru

Beer is not made only from barley and hops. In Peru, beer is brewed with local ingredients like quinoa, corn and potatoes (and popularly called chicha). At Peruvian eco-luxury pioneer Inkaterra’s lodge in the Sacred Valley, the on-site organic farm harvests those ingredients to make chicha de jora, a beer made from fermented Urubamba corn (and other ingredients used to make the regional dishes served in the restaurant). Inkaterra also offers a complimentary chicha de jora making activity in which guests learn to make the drink and then, after it ferments, taste the fruits of their labor.
