

15 Amazing Destinations In South America That You Won't Believe Exist.

Why Are They So Interesting?

Source: <http://www.airpano.ru/>

Aside from the fact that their purpose was to 'honor their chieftains or other important people who had passed away,' the faces of the statues are said to be of the early ancestors that dwelled there hundreds of years ago. They also stand around 13-feet in the air and weigh a hefty 13 tons each, making people wonder how they had been moved in the first place, given their size and weight, scientists are still trying to figure it out. Plus the fact that they have stood the test of time, weather, war and modernization is another revelation on it's own.

Inkaterra Canopy Walk, Peru

Source: <https://i.ytimg.com/>

Given the immense jungle areas located all over South America, Peru boasts of a large portion of tall trees and incredible canopies of flora and fauna. In fact, it's said that over 60% of Peru alone makes up a portion of the rather large Amazon rainforest. So why not put a gorgeous and lengthy canopy to get from one area to the next?e Amazon rainforest. So why not put a gorgeous, and lengthy canopy to get from one area to the next?